Mr. URBAN, Dec. 23.

THE surmise, p. 1101, respecting the original of the poverbial expression Incidit in Scyllam cupiens vitare Charybdim, is well founded; it being thus noticed in Stephen's Thesaurus: Evitata Charybde in Scyllam incido, i. e. Dum vito graviur malum in aliud majus incido. V. Erasmus Chiliadis I. centur. v. prov. iv. The illustration of it fills a column and an half of vol II. 183-4 fol. W & D.

Mr. URBAN, Dec. 24.

AS the recent discovery of a genuine likeness* of our great dramatic writer has excited a wish in several gentlemen to possess (for the sake of comparison) all the pretended as well as authorized representations of him, the following list, for their use, solicits a place in your valuable Magazine:

I. Engravings from the true original portrait of Shakspeare, painted on wood in the year 1597:

M. Droeshout, before the first folio, 1623
W. Marshall, before the Poems 1640
T. Trotter (two plates) 1794

II. Engravings from the Chandos canvas:

M. Vanderguchi, before Rowe's edition 1709
G. Vertue (set of Poets) 1719
Ditto, before Jacob's Lives, &c. 1719
G. Duchange, before Theobald's edition 1733
H. Gravelot, before Hanmer's edition 1744
J. Houbraken (illustrious Heads) 1747
G. Vertue, before Johnson's edition † 1765
J. Miller, at the end of Capel's Introduction 1768
J. Hall, before Reed's edition 1785
T. Cook, before Bell's edition 1788
G. Knight, before Malone's edition 1790
Le Goux (Harding's Shakspeare illustrated, &c.) 1799

III. Engravings from other spurious portraits:

G. Vertue, from Lord Oxford's pictures: prefixed to Pope's edition, 4to 1725
J. Simon, mez. from a picture by Zoust no date.
R. Earlom, mez. from Jennens's picture: prefixed to his edition of King Lear 1770

All other heads of Shakspeare are copies, with trivial variations from some of the foregoing plates. J. B.

[In our Magazine for December last, the foregoing article (on account of an accident at press) having appeared in a mutilated state, it is here reprinted with the necessary restorations.]
